

Monster Christmas - A Children's Good Night Tale

By AWavez

Dracula was in a bad mood. "Christmas is coming soon and I do not like Christmas. Just a lot of fuss and happy feelings among humans – irritating!" he thought.

"It's so irritating!" he said to Draculeena.

"What is, dear?" she answered.

"Christmas, of course!" said Dracula. "I do not like it!"

"Why don't you try to make it nicer for you, dear?" said Draculeena. "You could invite some other monsters for Christmas, for example."

"Invite monster to my home, never!" thought Dracula.

But he thought about it, and then he thought some more about it, and the more he thought about it, the more he liked the idea. A monster Christmas celebration would be something new, something unique. He would receive the other monster as their host and lord and they would look up to him and be ever grateful for his kind invitation. Yes, the more he thought about it, the more he liked it!

So, he said to Draculeena: “I’ve had a great idea! We should invite the other monster to a Christmas party!”

“That’s what I suggested.” said Draculeena.

“Oh, you did? Never mind, it’s a great idea and it will be great fun – let’s do it!” said Dracula.

They sent out the invitations via bat-mail. They invited the Werewolves, the Mummies, Frankenstein, the Gouls, the Ghosts, the Goblins, some other Vampires, a few Beasts, a bunch of Zombies. They all answered, they all wanted to come!

In the early Christmas afternoon, the guests started to arrive. They all gathered around the enormous Christmas tree that Dracula and Draculeena had had put up. Around the Christmas tree was spread lots of Christmas presents for the guests, who had of course brought presents for their hosts.

First, they played monster Christmas games – hide and seek, find and scare, scare and bite and other such fun.

Then they had Christmas dinner, with

- Scary Turkey
- Trampled Potatoes
- Blood Gravy
- Cranium-berry Sauce
- Tender Loin
- Screemed Spinach

For deserts, they had Crookies and Fruitfly Cake.

After dinner they sang monster Christmas songs, such as

- O Scary Night
- Dead Silent Night
- O Come All Ye Monsters
- Scary Christmas

And, of course, their favorite Christmas song, Monster Christmas!

Then they all had refreshments and some bites, which we shall not mention in detail because they were a bit scary, but we can say this: Monster Punch was included!

Having satisfied their hunger and thirst, they danced around the Christmas tree and exchanged Christmas presents. Dracula and Draculeena, being the hosts, got the most Christmas gifts and they were very happy.

“Christmas is not so bad after all!” thought Dracula.

After a while the monsters were both sated and tired, and they all said goodnight and went away to sleep, to dream about all the fun they had had, and all the scary fun they would have next Christmas!

And now I think you are sleepy too, and should sleep, and dream about all the fun you have had today, and all the fun you will have tomorrow!

Good night!

Lyrics for Monster Christmas by AWavez

Chorus:	5
Monster Christmas! Monster Christmas!	The werewolves let out fearsome roars
We are dreaming of a Monster Christmas!	As they prowl through the festive floors
Monster Christmas! Monster Christmas!	They'll play games of hide and seek
We are dreaming of a Christmas for Monsters!	And hunt down any humans who peek
1	6
Monsters love – to celebrate Christmas times	The mummies wrap - themselves in cloth
They deck the halls - with creepy designs	As they dance to the beat - they slap away a moth
Ghosts and goblins - vampires and beasts	They speak of curses - and their tomb
They all join in - the holiday feasts	And haunt the halls - with eerie doom
2	Chorus:
It's Christmas time - and the moon is high
The snow is falling - the vampires fly
Then they gather - by the Christmas tree	7
Their fangs are sharp - eyes glow with glee	The werewolves transform - under the moon
3	Their fur on end - they howl a tune
Frankenstein - will be there	They play and hunt - and raise a storm
The werewolves howling - in the air	Until they change back - to human form
Mummies unwrap - their ancient gifts
zombies do - the monster lifts	8
	The goblins cackle – cackle and cower
Bridge:	play tricks on others - to make them sour
They'll gather 'round the Christmas tree	Swap stories of mischief - and misdeed
And exchange presents, you'll see	As they bet on who is - next to bleed
They may look scary, but deep inside
They're just monsters who love to hide	9
	The ghosts - float - through the air
Chorus:	Ethereal, translucent – with-out a care
	They sing ghostly carols - and tell spooky tales
	They'll scare you with - their fearsome wails
The vampires slink through the dark	Outro:
They'll snatch up any unwary mark	But when the moon - is at its peak
Their fangs glinting in the moonlight	The monsters all – go back to sleep
Dancing and draining their victims in the night	They dream of screams - and fright
	The fun they'll have next - Monster Christmas night
	Chorus:
